Please note that if you are making an appeal based on Illinois residence criteria of your parent(s) or spouse, then you must include documents that identify yourself as well as provide proof of their residency. A list of the circumstances, although not necessarily conclusive in their totality that may have probative value in support of a documented claim for bona fide residency in the state, is identified in the attached Procedure for Review of Residency Status with your petition (see A-O).

Please note: The University reserves the right to reclassify a student to nonresident status retroactive to the first term during which residency status was based on false or falsified documents if the University has classified a student as a resident based on false or falsified documents. In addition, the student who has submitted false information may be subject to appropriate disciplinary action.

Please detach and keep the following pages from petition for your personal records.

PROCEDURE FOR REVIEW OF RESIDENCY STATUS

A student who takes exception to the residency status assigned and/or tuition assessed shall pay the tuition assessed but may file a claim in writing to the designated University residency official in the Office of Registration and Records for a reconsideration of residency status and/or an adjustment of the tuition assessed. The University may request documentation of the evidence. However, the burden of establishing that a person is domiciled in Illinois for reasons other than educational purposes is upon the student. The written claim must be filed within 30 calendar days from the date of assessment of tuition or from the date designated in the official university calendar as that upon which instruction begins for the academic period for which the tuition is payable, whichever is later, or the student loses all rights to a change of status and/or adjustment of the tuition assessed for the term in question.

To establish bona fide residence in Illinois under this Regulation, a person must demonstrate physical presence and general intent to reside permanently in Illinois for reasons other than educational objectives. In reviewing a claim of Illinois residency, the issue becomes one of "domicile" because a person has only one legal domicile at any time. The principal elements which determine domicile in Illinois are physical presence within the state and an intention to remain permanently, or for an indefinite period of time, and not merely to take advantage of in-state tuition rates for educational purposes only. Essentially, a person's domicile is that place to which whenever a person is absent, he or she has the intention of returning to live. Mere physical presence in Illinois, regardless of how prolonged, is insufficient to establish a domicile, without such an intent to remain in Illinois.

Bona fide residency, i.e. "domicile," must be maintained in Illinois for at least 6 consecutive months immediately preceding the beginning of any term for which a student registers at the university, and the student must continue to maintain such residency to qualify for resident tuition rates. The following circumstances, although not necessarily conclusive, in their totality have probative value in support of a documented claim for bona fide residency in the State:

- A. Continuous physical presence--defined as no more than a three-week absence from the State of Illinois except for hardship reasons -- for at least 6 months as described above.
- B. Domicile in Illinois of parent(s), legal guardian, or spouse.
- C. Voting or registration for voting in Illinois.
- D. Illinois driver's license or identification card and automobile registration.
- E. Financial independence and payment and filing of Illinois income/property taxes and/or ownership of property in Illinois during the tax year or partial tax year immediately preceding the term for which the person is requesting resident classification. Just the filing of Illinois state income taxes, or filing without substantial Illinois income earned, will not be judged as a significant criterion for reclassification.
- F. Six months of gainful employment in Illinois or prove reliance upon resources in Illinois for more than fifty percent of the income sufficient to provide for tuition, fees, and normal living expenses, e.g., food, clothing, housing, and transportation. Reliance upon income earned from loans is not viewed as evidence of intent to establish residency. Graduate assistantships or other student employment does not count towards this showing of gainful employment in Illinois.

- G. The lease of living quarters and payment of utility bills in Illinois.
- H. Former domicile in the state and maintenance of significant connections therein while absent.
- I. Admission to a licensed practicing profession in Illinois.
- J. Long-term military commitments in Illinois and/or proof that Illinois is the home of record.
- K. Domicile for six months in the state for other than educational purposes.
- L. Establishment of financial accounts at Illinois institutions.
- M. Public records, for example, birth and marriage records, and state or federal court records.
- N. Other official documents verifying legal, official connection with Illinois or with organizations or institutions within the state of Illinois.
- O. Exclusive use of the Illinois address when home or mailing address is requested.

Neither length of university attendance nor continued presence in the university community during vacation periods shall alone be construed to be proof of Illinois residence.

Students, for whom the following circumstances apply, must submit copies of the following documentation with their residency petition:

- If married to an Illinois resident, please submit a certified copy of your marriage license.
- If an international student, please submit a copy of front and back of Alien Registration (Green Card), copy of passport with official approval stamp, or I-94 arrival/departure record, indicating visa which does not preclude an intent to reside permanently in the U.S.
- If you are an Illinois Teacher, please submit a letter from the superintendent/principal from your district/school, stating contract date of employment and percentage of employment (one-quarter, half-time, full-time, etc.). Please note: verification of your teaching contract must be submitted annually.
- If Illinois University Staff Member, please submit a copy of your Staff Identification card.
- If member of the Armed Forces Personnel, please submit a copy of your DD214 enlistment/discharge status or DD2058 state of legal residence certificate.

Evidence for determination of residence status of each applicant for admission to the university shall be submitted at the time of application for admission. A student may be reclassified at any time by the university upon the basis of additional or changed information. However, if the student is classified in error as a Resident student, the change in tuition shall be applicable beginning with the term following the reclassification; if the student is classified in error as a Nonresident, the change in tuition shall be applicable to the term in which the reclassification occurs, provided the student has filed a written request for a review in accordance with this Regulation. In addition, the student who has submitted false information may be subject to appropriate disciplinary action.

APPEALS

If the student is dissatisfied with the ruling in response to the written claim made within said period, he or she may appeal the ruling to the Vice Provost by filing a written request with the designated university residency official in the Office of Registration and Records within 20 calendar days of receipt of the notice of the ruling. If such a written request is filed within said period, available information on the question of residency status under the provisions of the Residency Status Regulation of the Board of Trustees and of applicable laws shall be referred by the designated university residency official in the Office of Registration and Records to the Vice Provost, whose decision shall be final.
